Internship in Work and Organizational Psychology (PSI08577)

Considering the areas of intervention / the Psychologists / as Work and Organizations, these stages will address four major areas of intervention:

1. Individual intervention.
2. Group Intervention (referring to a team or organizational unit).
3. Intervention in the organization as a whole.
4. Intervention in the context of the organization's relationship with the outside world.

In this framework, there are two major areas of intervention:

- A. Philosophical, strategic and political - participation in activities involving direct reflection on the philosophy, strategy or policies of the organization;
- B. Technical and operational - participation in actions that directly mobilize technical skills of the work and organizational psychology.
